Killed at Babcock.

On Sunday evening about 8:30 Peter Folsom, a brakeman on the St. Paul road, met his death at Babcock by being crushed beneath the wheels of his train, five freight cars and the locomotive passing over his legs, he expiring within half an hour after the accident.

Mr. Folsom was a brakeman on train No. 175 and was engaged in doing some switching in the yards before starting on his run. He had stepped between the cars to munciple for the purpose of throwing a couple of cars into the siding when he got his foot caught in a frog in such a manner that he was unable to extricate himself and the train backed over him, crushing his limbs from the body and cutting a great gash in his head where he was struck by some part of the cars. He was quickly picked up and taken under shelter and medical aid summoned, but nothing could be done to save his life and he died in about half an hour.

Mr. Tolson was a young man about 21 years of age and his home was at Toman. He had been employed on the road only about two months.

A meeting for the organization will be held at Natwick's hall on Sunday.

WM. J. CONWAY.

We present herewith a portrait of William J. Conway, our next county judge, who received at the hands of the people of Wood county one of the most handsome endorsements that has ever been extended to a young man in this county who was making his first campaign, and that on strictly non-partisan lines. Mr. Conway is one of our brightest young men and the people are to be congratulated that they have selected so capable a man for the office. The campaign was probably one of the cleanest ever conducted anywhere and while both Messrs. Conway and Gaynor got out and hustled for their own interests, neither indulged in any of the old time personalities that do so much to sicken the honest voter of politics and political methods. Mr. Conway's term of office commences Jan. 1, 1902. The vote of county judge was a surprise to all and even the most sanguine friends of Mr. Conway had not looked for such a complete victory. Following is the vote so far as can be obtained at this time:

A Matrimonial Puzzle.

The divorce case of Paul Abeldt vs Lena Abeldt, which was tried before Judge Webb in circuit court Wednesday and decided in favor of the plaintiff, developed an interesting story.

The plaintiff, who now lives at Marshfield, was first married at Marinette in 1893. He separated from his wife in 1898, and the next year married a Marshfield girl under an impression that his first wife had secured a divorce, which was erroneous. When the fact of his second marriage became known at Marinette in 1900, he was arrested and brought back to that city. He was released on the fact becoming known that his first wife had a husband living and not divorced at the time of her marriage to Abeldt. Under the circumstances Abeldt, in doubt who his real wife was, or whether he was legally married to anyone and for the purpose of straightening out the matrimonial tangle, secured a divorce from his first wife, and upon his return to Marshfield took out a license and will remarry his present spouse as soon as the five-day limit expires.—Stevens Point Journal.

Poem Which Pleased Queen Victoria

In reference to a paragraph that appeared in the London Daily Mail recently, a correspondent sends that paper a copy of the little poem, "She Nodded to Me," which was published about sixteen years ago in the Aberdeen Journal. This poem pleased the Queen so much that she ordered a copy of the northern paper to be sent to her regularly. If "Africa" is substituted for the word "Egypt" the poem seems particularly appropriate at the present moment:

I'm but an old body
Lived up in Deeside.
In a two-roomed bit hoosie
With a roof of heathie.
With my coo and my gumpie
I'm as happy's a bee,
But I'm far prouder now
Since she noddit to me!

I'm noo so far past wit—
I'm gie trig and haid—
Can plant two-three lawties,
An' look after my rail.
And when our Queen passes
I'm out to see,
Gin by luck she micht notice,
And nod oot to me!

But I've aye been unlucky,
And the blubs were aye doon.
The last week the thue
O' her veeat cam' roon.
I waded my bit upon
As blyke's I could dae,
An' the Queen lanchit in kindly
An' noddit to me!

My sen sleeps in Egypt—
It's me cose to freit.
An' yet when I think o't
I'm sair like to greet.
She may feel for my sorrow—
She's a mither, ye see—
An' maybe she kent o't
When she noddit to me!

"Crazy" Crocker's California Dream.

When the late Charlie Crocker of Central Pacific railway fame crossed the plains in the 40s by ox team over the old emigrant trail from Council Bluffs to San Francisco, he predicted that, within a comparatively few years, a steam railroad would be running across the continent, following substantially the same course traveled by him. His prediction was considered so absurd by his associates that he was nicknamed "Crazy Crocker." Mr. Crocker had the satisfaction of not only seeing his prediction come true, but of being one of the leading spirits in the construction of the first transcontinental railroad. Since Mr. Crocker's dream was realized and the first transcontinental line was completed, five other distinct and separate lines have been built in the Pacific coast.

The outside of the church is modeled after the architecture of the Greek orthodox church, abounding in chiseled-painted panels of saints and maidens.

THOUSANDS OF FAIR WOMEN HERALD PRAISES FOR PERUNA

Catarrhal Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration Make Invalids of More Women Than All Other Diseases Combined.

Peruna is the woman's friend everywhere. It is safe to say that no woman ever used Peruna for any catarrhal derangement but what it became indispensable in her household.

Letters From Women.
Every day we receive letters from women like the following. Women who have tried doctors and failed; women who have tried Peruna and were cured.

Miss Katie Klein, 6125 Bartner avenue, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

Miss Anna Prescott's Letter.
Miss Anna Prescott, in a letter from 216 South Seventh street, Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"I am sincerely grateful for the relief I have found from the use of Peruna. I was completely used up last fall, my appetite had failed and I felt weak and tired all the time. My druggist advised me to try Peruna, and the relief I experienced after taking one bottle was truly wonderful."

"I continued its use for five weeks, and am glad to say that my complete restoration to health was a happy surprise to myself as well as to my friends."—Anna Prescott.

Petroleum Wells in Egypt.
Two wells have been sunk by the petroleum syndicate at places called Gabel el-Zeit and Gensah, on the west coast of the Suez gulf, about 125 miles south of Suez. One of these wells has been sunk to a depth of 2380 feet, and the other to a distance of 2000 feet, writes a Cairo correspondent. In the deeper well three veins of good gas have been struck, and the last 300 feet have been through black, petroleum-bearing sand. The company is preparing to sink a third well, about 100 miles to the south of Suez, near the shore of the so-called large plain, or Southern machinery, of the Arabian desert, and the machinery for this purpose has arrived on the spot. The manager of the works is Prof. P. T. Wanner, a transatlantic; and all the workmen, laborers and tools are American, having been furnished by a well-known New York company.

Convalescent Nursing—A New Idea.
A comparatively new occupation for young women has been opened recently under the name of convalescent nursing. Professional nurses are often retained only through the critical stages of a disease or a surgical case, although good nursing of a kind is very much needed all through the subsequent convalescent stage, which may extend over weeks or months. It is not a high degree of technical skill which is required during this period so much as a general knowledge of the art of nursing and the little attentions and care-taking which every convalescent needs to insure the speediest return to full health. It is just here that the usefulness and availability of the convalescent nurse, the new class, comes in. The required training for this service extends over only eight weeks, the expense for preparation is correspondingly small, and the rates correspondingly low, being only about one-third that charged by the professionals. —Ladies' Weekly.

THE JEWELLED TALISMAN OR PURITAN AND CAVALIER BY MRS. CAROLINE ORNE

She reached the closet in time to enter and close the door, though, in her haste, she made no attempt to fasten it, nor did she observe that a Persian scarf thrown carelessly over her shoulders had fallen to the floor at the moment of her entrance. It was of a light though rich fabric, with a deep embroidery of gold, the sight of which was so tempting in the eyes of her pursuer, that she stopped and picked it up. This delay, trifling as it was, saved her.

"Hold, on your peril!" exclaimed Harleigh, springing forward as the man was in the act of opening the door.

The interior of the closet, however, presented precisely the same appearance as it had the preceding evening. The look of blank astonishment depicted on the countenance of each of the ruffians might on a different occasion excite mirth; now, the predominant emotion in the mind of Harleigh, as well as of the Jew, who had described to him the retreat of Abi, now shared by Alice, though he had not mentioned the name of the latter, was one of devout thankfulness.

"I should almost believe that my eyes had played me false, if it weren't for this," said Mat, holding up the scarf.

Meanwhile Skellum was eagerly examining the closet, to ascertain by what means she had made her escape.

"Let him satisfy himself," said the Jew, seeing that Harleigh and the stranger regarded him with looks of impatience. "There is no danger of his discovering the manner of her egress."

"If I hadn't tried the thickness of these walls last night," said Skellum, who soon gave up his search as hopeless, "I would try what a few well-aimed blows would do."

"As the trial seems to have been satisfactory," said Harleigh, "you may as well go now."

"And leave that scarf behind you," said the stranger, addressing Mat, who was about to tie it round his waist.

"We shall do neither the one nor the other, unless we please," said Skellum, answering both for himself and comrade.

"That's what we want," said Mat.

The stranger's only answer to this was taking possession of the scarf, which he did with perfect ease, a feat that evidently raised him in the estimation of all three of the wretches, who had been inclined to believe that the conciliatory manner he had previously adopted toward them was the result of timidity.

"You prefer to remain here a while longer?" said Harleigh, again addressing Skellum.

"Yes," he replied, sullenly, "and you needn't trouble yourself about it if we do."

"Very well," said Harleigh. "We will, in the meantime, see what can be done to procure an escort for you."

"He means the police," whispered Mat. Cackle then turned to Harleigh and the stranger and said:

"There's no use in trying to frighten us—that is no easy matter; but if the gentleman will be so obliging as to let us try how we shall feel with a few of those gold pieces he showed us in his pockets, I will go away quietly myself, and use my influence to persuade the others to follow my example."

"It is too late now," said the stranger. "I'm no longer in the vein. When I offered you gold, I didn't take you for the servants you have proved yourselves to be. You have already annoyed these inoffensive people with your presence, much too long—longer than this gentleman and myself would have permitted, had it not been that we felt indisposed to engage in a brawl with such fellows as you, especially beneath a peaceable and respectable roof."

After having waited a minute or two, finding that they seemed disposed to maintain their ground, he made a sign to Mizar. The boy understood it, and at once prepared to obey. The ruffians, however, appeared to think it best to make good their retreat, which they did, with muttered threats, among which the words, "We shall yet have our revenge; the old Jew doesn't know what there is in store for him!" could be distinguished.

After leaving the ship, as they passed a little dark court, of which the house and an outbuilding belonging to the Jew formed two of the sides, Cackle said in a whisper: "The dumb witness that lies there will make it go hard with the old Jew."

CHAPTER XVII.

The stranger stood in the doorway till the sound of their receding footsteps had died away. He then, having closed the door, turned to Harleigh.

"If I heard aright," said he, "your name is Clarence Harleigh."

"That is my name."

"And Alice is Edward Elliston."

"One that I shan't be likely soon to forget," said Harleigh, cordially offering him his hand, "for it is to Edward Elliston that I owe my liberation from prison."

"I imagined," said young Elliston, with some embarrassment, "that after the precaution which had been taken to prevent it, the name of the person couldn't transpire."

"I couldn't suffer myself to be the recipient of a signal favor without making an effort to discover the author of it," replied Harleigh, "though, after all, I must confess that it was revealed to me by what may be termed chance, rather than by any exertion of my own. But why should you wish to conceal what has made me so much your debtor?"

"I hardly know, were I to attempt it, as I could offer any very logical reason for so doing, and will, therefore, only say that I was sincere in the wish that it should not be made known."

"You didn't care to make my acquaintance, is the only way I can interpret your reluctance," said Harleigh, smiling; "but if you had any graver reason for wishing to avoid me, chance seems to have overruled your intention by bringing us together at this time. Perhaps, however, you came here with the knowledge that a young girl under the protection of a lady by the name of Elliston, whom I suppose to be your mother, found refuge here last night from a crew of desperadoes?"

"Am I so fortunate? I had consumed the whole day in vain efforts to trace her, and was returning home, thoroughly discouraged, when, on hearing the cries of the lad, I entered."

"I am already so much a debtor to you both," said the Jew, who had thus far stood silently by, "that I can hardly venture to ask of you anything more; yet, if you could be persuaded to remain here till daylight, we should feel comparatively safe. Will you permit me to send word to Abi, my granddaughter, and the young damsel who is with her, that I will bring with me two gentlemen, who have shown themselves to be our friends in the hour of need, to spend an hour or two in their company?"

It was a proposition which neither of them felt in a humor to decline, and Harleigh, having no suspicion that the "young damsel," who had several times been alluded to by the Jew under that appellation, was Alice Dale, was not deterred from giving his consent on account of the promise exacted by Mr. Walworth.

When the door was thrown open, which disclosed an apartment such as, in splendor, might have been supposed to compare with those of Aladdin's palace, they were both surprised. Harleigh, who was in advance of Elliston, stepped back, that he might enter before him.

"The meeting of friends should precede that of strangers," said he.

Elliston, not knowing exactly how to construe this, hesitated a moment, but finding that Harleigh still held back, he entered the room, saying, as he did so, something about the greater pleasure being reserved for the last, the meaning of which was, of course, enigmatical to Harleigh.

Alice, the moment Edward Elliston stepped inside the door, rose and went forward to meet him.

"After all my fears, then, to the contrary," said she, "your mother received the billet I sent her this morning?"

"No; we hadn't received a single word of intelligence in any shape whatever. My finding you here was entirely unexpected."

Harleigh was so surprised at seeing her, whom he thought so far distant, and in the midst of a scene of so much magnificence, that he was almost inclined to doubt the evidence of his own senses, all the doubts and misgivings which Mildred Dacres and Falkland had succeeded in inspiring him, as respected the constancy of Alice, were, for the time being, forgotten.

As he stood behind Edward Elliston, Alice did not at first see him, and when, as if suddenly roused from a dream, he stepped forward, she, too, forgot that the machinations of Falkland and Mildred must have given him cause to distrust her. Her heartfelt joy at seeing him went far to remove many of those doubts he had been unable to overcome.

When the surprise and excitement of the meeting between her and Harleigh had somewhat subsided, the thoughts of Alice reverted to the opal. Possibly, Harleigh might not know that she had lost it. At any rate, she felt determined to seek an opportunity to tell him all she herself knew respecting its loss. While these thoughts were yet in her mind, the Jew, taking it from a small casket, handed it to Harleigh.

"Your motive in calling this evening," said he, "was to examine it. You may not find a better opportunity than the present."

As Harleigh took it, he could not forbear looking towards Alice, but though her color heightened, her eyes, which for a moment met his, did not droop. Having examined it, Harleigh returned it without speaking.

"You find it to be the same once in your possession?" said the Jew.

"Yes."

Alice, who had been attentively watching him, saw that a shadow was resting on Harleigh's brow. Rising precipitately from the divan, where she was sitting by the side of Abi, she approached him.

"You knew that I had lost that opal before you came here this evening—did you not?" she inquired.

"I knew that you had parted with it," he replied, gravely.

"You couldn't think that I gave it to Falkland?"

"He said so, and publicly, too."

"And you believed him?"

Her voice faltered, for in confirmation of her words, the expression of his countenance every moment grew graver and more stern. She paused a short time to recover herself, and then with an earnestness and directness that made every word tell, she related those incidents connected with the loss of the opal, as far as they were known to herself. Her voice, her countenance, her manner, all conspired to give what she said the stamp of truth.

"Are you satisfied?" said she, with a smile, when she had finished.

She hardly would have ventured to ask this question, had she not seen by the clearing away of the clouds that had darkened his brow, the import of what she might expect for an answer.

"I am not only satisfied," he replied, "but am heartily ashamed of having wronged you by paying the slightest heed to those who attempted to deceive me. I have only to ask your forgiveness."

"Which is quite unnecessary, as you know that I am not one of those who hold malice. And now I have a request to make."

"Before you name it, I promise that it shall be granted."

"It is only that you will not seek to deprive Abi, who has been very kind to me, of the rare and costly gem, which

THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION AT BUFFALO.

HEART OF THE EXPOSITION.

THE Pan-American Exposition is the first great public event of the Twentieth Century. Its dominant purpose is to illustrate progress during the century just closed and lay a strong and enduring foundation for international, commercial and social unity in the New World. In several respects the Exposition outstrips all former enterprises of its character. The most important of these are the artistic color decorations of the buildings, the electrical effects, the original sculpture, the hydraulic and fountain effects, the horticultural and floral effects, and the court settings.

The electrical display will be the most complete ever made, the nearness to the Exposition grounds of the great plants which have harnessed Niagara and put its tremendous power to commercial use, making this possible. A Steel Electric Tower, an Electric Fountain and the Court of Fountains furnish opportunities for extraordinary outdoor displays of electrical wonders. About half a million incandescent lamps and one hundred searchlights are used in the illumination.

The decorative lighting of the buildings takes advantage of the many handsome designs in staff and brings them out with translucent effects or outlined with points of light. Advantage is also taken of the numerous towers, turrets and domes to produce a starry effect.

Sculpture is used in the adornment of the Court of Fountains, the Triumphal Bridge, the Esplanade, the Plaza, the Electric Tower, the Bridge of the Three Americas, entrances to buildings, and in many other ways, there being upward of 125 original groups of statuary, by Karl Bitter and other sculptors of world repute. Over 500 pieces are used. The plastic ornamentation of the buildings is very intricate and beautiful. All the buildings are covered with staff, which is moulded into thousands of beautiful and fanciful shapes. The display of original sculpture is the most magnificent ever used for decorative purposes at any exposition. Never before at any exposition has an effort succeeded to produce a harmonious color scheme. All of the great buildings are decorated in harmonious tints, and the effect is very beautiful.

The centerpiece of the Exposition is an Electric Tower 409 feet high, upon and about which will be an electrical display surpassing any ever yet attempted. More than 40,000 lamps and a searchlight with a 30-inch projector, capable of casting rays for a distance of fifty miles, will be used in the illumination of this tower.

There are more than thirty-three acres of beautiful courts. There are in all the courts large pools of water into which hundreds of fountains will throw their sparkling streams. Never before has such a work been undertaken upon so grand a scale.

The united efforts of the builders of the Exposition have produced a harmonious, artistic and brilliant ensemble, and the Exposition presents a most beautiful spectacle.

In all the exhibit divisions the Pan-American Exposition will be very complete. It is the aim of the Exposition to show the progress of the Nineteenth Century in the Western World. The exhibits will be gathered from all the principal States and countries of the Western Hemisphere and the new islands and possessions of the United States government. Special efforts are being made to bring together exhibits of exceptional novelty and of the highest educational value.

The Exposition grounds are in the northern part of Buffalo, adjacent to the large and beautiful Delaware Park. They are about one mile in length from north to south, and half a mile wide. There are 350 acres, including 135 acres of improved park lands and lakes. A pleasing first impression is sure to be obtained by the visitor, no matter by which way he enters the Exposition grounds. The situation of the grounds and the manner in which they have been laid out, render possible the attainment of this end.

The gates open on May 1st, and the Exposition will continue six months. It is estimated that the total cost of the Exposition, exclusive of exhibits, but including the Midway, will be about $10,000,000.

PAID TO KEEP A SECRET.

Louisville Artist Receives $2,000 a Year on a Five-Year Contract.

Aloysius Massman, a Louisville artisan, formerly a resident of Cincinnati, is a party to one of the most novel contracts on record.

Without a stroke of work he receives $2,000 annually from six of the largest enameling firms in the country. The only condition of his agreement, which has been in effect since 1898 and runs five years, is that he keep secret the formula of the bathbath enamel his father, Lewis Massman, discovered thirty-five years ago. Massman worked for one of the Louisville firms which is now paying him to do nothing, but a quarrel, resulting from an attempt to steal the jealously guarded secret, resulted in his resigning his place, and to prevent competition, the arrangement was made with him.

Useful Sort of a Wife.

Mrs. Mary Maudering Hackett has designed for her dear husband, James K., a trunk desk, which is a continual source of delight to him. In it are stowed away important papers, letters and contracts; valuable things which formerly were forever getting lost and causing the actor no end of anxiety. The desk, while roomy, is compact, and requires little more floor space than an ordinary trunk. It slides the indexed pinholes for papers, it has compartments for stationery requisites, a drop stand and jock-proof lock pot.

Whenever Mr. Hackett wanders on his theatrical tours the desk-trunk wanders too, and the actor says his wanders joy for ever and a day without it. New York Mail and Express.

INDIAN MISSIONARY'S STORY.

Years of Tailor-made Ministry Among the Choctaws.

Little York, Ind., April 2.—(Special.)—Twenty-five years ago, the Rev. C. H. Thompson left Indiana. For a time he preached in Arkansas, afterwards entering on the regular missionary work among the Choctaw Indians.

For five years he lived and labored among the full bloods of the western prairies, until on April 4, 1885, having lost his wife, he left the circuit on which he had preached so long, and commenced traveling missionary work among the Indians of the various tribes scattered in the West.

The irregular work involved a great deal of travel over the prairies. The drinking of so much alkali water, brought on Kidney Troubles, which terminated in Diabetes.

Finally, while laboring among the Creek Indians at Wagoner, Indian Territory, this noble man was stricken down completely. A Chicago specialist was summoned, and after a careful examination, declared that there was not the slightest chance of his recovery. Besides the prescriptions of the doctors, he tried many other medicines, but all to no avail. He says:

"I had concluded that my days were drawing to a close, when I picked up an Almanac telling of the cures of Diabetes by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I sent for two boxes. I gained strength and spirits from the time I commenced to use them, and so I sent for more. I am now completely cured, and have not the slightest symptom of my old trouble."

"I am 68 years of age. I tell everybody of the wonders Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me. I can certainly endorse them heartily, and vouch that they are all that is claimed for them. They have certainly been a God-send to me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only remedy that has ever cured Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy and they never fail.

Churches Among the Sioux.

Among the Sioux Indians there are now twenty-three churches, constituting the Dakota Indian Presbytery. These are in North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Montana. Three years ago there were 1341 members of these churches, with 16 native ministers, one lay preacher and two assistants.

Killed at Babcock.

On Sunday evening about 8:30 Peter Folson, a brakeman on the St. Paul road, met his death at Babcock by being crushed beneath the wheels of his train, five freight cars and the locomotive passing over his legs, he expiring within half an hour after the accident.

Mr. Folsom was a brakeman on train No. 175 and was engaged in doing some switching in the yards before starting on his run. He had stepped between the cars to uncouple for the purpose of throwing a couple of cars into the siding when he got his foot caught in a frog in such a manner that he was unable to extricate himself and the train backed over him, crushing his limbs from the body and cutting a great gash in his head where he was struck by some part of the cars. He was quickly picked up and taken under shelter and medical aid summoned, but nothing could be done to save his life and he died in about half an hour.

Mr. Tolson was a young man about 21 years of age and his home was at Touham. He had been employed on the road only about two months.

WM. J. CONWAY.

We present herewith a portrait of William J. Conway, our next county judge, who received at the hands of the people of Wood county one of the most handsome endorsements that has ever been extended to a young man in this county who was making his first campaign, and that on strictly non-partisan lines. Mr. Conway is one of our brightest young men and the people are to be congratulated that they have selected so capable a man for the office. The campaign was probably one of the cleanest ever conducted anywhere and while both Messrs. Conway and Gaynor got out and hustled for their own interests, neither indulged in any of the old time personalities that do so much to sicken the honest voter of politics and political methods. Mr. Conway's term of office commences Jan. 1, 1902.

The vote of county judge was a surprise to all and even the most sanguine friends of Mr. Conway had not looked for such a complete victory. Following is the vote so far as can be obtained
at this time:

A Matrimonial Puzzle.

The divorce case of Paul Abeldt vs
Lena Abeldt, which was tried before Judge Webb in circuit court Wednesday and decided in favor of the plaintiff, developed an interesting story.

The plaintiff, who now lives at Marshfield, was first married at Marinette in 1893. He separated from his wife in 1893, and the next year married a Marshfield girl under an impression that his first wife had secured a divorce, which was erroneous.
When the fact of his second marriage became known at Marinette in 1900, he was arrested and brought back to that city. He was released on the fact becoming known that his first wife had a husband living and not divorced
at the time of her marriage to Abeldt.
Under the circumstances Abeldt,
in doubt who his real wife was, or whether he was legally married to anyone and for the purpose of straightening out the matrimonial tangle,
secured a divorce from his first wife,
and upon his return to Marshfield took out a license and will remarry his present spouse as soon as the five-day limit expires.—Stevens Point
Journal.

MANY COMMIT BIGAMY.

Indians on Oneida Reservation Practice Free Love.

WILL BE PROSECUTED.

Government will Have Offenders Arrested and Punished for Their Crime.

Green Bay, Wis., April 2.—[Special.]—Steps are to be taken by government authorities to stop the wholesale practice of bigamy and free love by the Indians living on the Oneida reservation near this city. Both customs have been in vogue among the less intelligent of the Oneidas for many years without interruption or interference on the part of government authorities. In view of the fact that the steadily increasing privileges being granted the Oneidas may soon make them full-fledged citizens the authorities believe it is now time to act promptly and vigorously in order that serious complications of various nature may be avoided, so far as possible, when the Oneidas have arrived at full citizenship.

J. C. Hart, the new superintendent of the reservation, after investigating the conditions existing, has formed himself with legal advice and proposes to take the practice of bigamy by arresting and criminal prosecutions under state statutes for offenses that are reported hereafter.

Supt. Hart says the condition that was revealed by his investigation is something alarming and almost incredible. Bigamy and free love, he says, are practiced to a greater extent on the Oneida reservation than among the Sioux and other tribes of wild and semi-civilized Indians among whom he has lived during many years of experience as a government agent. It has not been an uncommon thing for Oneidas to swap wives. Sometimes in a single day this kind of a party or other personal property has entered into the bargain, being given as "boot" by the Indian who disposed of the squaw who was considered the least desirable. If an Indian tired of one wife, even after a number of years of married life and the birth of children, he did not hesitate to desert his wife and children and marry a younger single woman who had taken his fancy. Often the marriage ceremony was not considered necessary and was dispensed with entirely, even to the Indian form. Among the large number of Oneidas who have been reached and influenced by the missionaries living on the reservation, however, the marriage ceremony is regarded as sacred as it is among white people.

ROW AT LITTLE CHUTE.

Trouble Over Village Election May End in a Serious Fight—People Greatly Excited.

Little Chute, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—The village is in a state of great excitement today over the election. At the caucuses E. F. Gernsman was unanimously nominated for village president. John A. Kilsink declined. Since that time little talk has been heard from the quiet among the villagers as it became known that Gernsman was in favor of fire protection, which many do not favor. This morning all the ballots were made out for Kilsink alone. The Gernsman party is wild and serious trouble is feared.

SAVED BY MEN HE WANTED TO ARREST.

Game Warden Bissinger Has a Narrow Escape from Drowning in Green Bay.

Green Bay, Wis., April 2.—[Special.]—Game Warden Bissinger had a narrow escape from drowning in Green Bay. In company with Undersheriff Gautier, the game warden was in pursuit of two men, who were hunting ducks near Grassy Island lighthouse Sunday. At the approach of the officers the hunters jumped into their sled boat and paddled across the open channel to a place of safety. Stationing the undersheriff on one side of the channel the game warden started to walk around on the ice to the place where the hunters were, when he fell through a fissure that was partly concealed from view by shell ice. He struggled in the icy water for several minutes and was nearly exhausted when a long pole was thrown to him by one of the hunters and by bridging the pole across the fissure the game warden succeeded in pulling himself out on solid ice. The arrests were not made.

RACINE HAS A BIG FIRE.

Belle City Malleable Iron Works Damaged by Flames.

THE LOSS IS $52,000.

Roads in Such a Bad Condition Department Couldn't Get to Fire—Portage Hotel Destroyed.

Racine, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—The core and pattern department of the Belle City Malleable Iron company was destroyed by fire this morning, causing a loss of $50,000. On account of the terrible condition of the roads it was almost impossible for the fire companies to reach the factory. The building and its contents were consumed before the department arrived. Had there been any wind blowing every factory building in the vicinity would have been destroyed as the fire department could do nothing.

Three weeks ago the core-room of the company was destroyed and the loss amounted to $4000. Over two years ago the entire plant was wiped out by fire. The destroyed buildings will be rebuilt as soon as possible.

Hotel Fire at Portage.

Portage, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—Fire which started last night in the pasty kitchen of the Cornish house spread so rapidly that it soon got beyond control, and the building was destroyed. The guests were compelled to flee for their lives. Most of them lost all their belongings.

The fire was confined to the hotel proper and the annex, the business houses and offices in the block escaped with little injury, save that caused by smoke and water. Landlord Edmund this forenoon estimates his loss at between $15,000 and $18,000. There is an insurance upon the burned portion of the Cornish block of $10,000 and $7000 upon the remaining portion. A separate insurance was carried, as the two buildings in the block were separated by a fire wall. Fifteen thousand dollars was carried upon the furniture. About $180 in cash belonging to Mr. Edman and the servants was consumed, and when a long pole of brick veneer and fell in as soon as the interior of the building had been gutted by the flames. The property was recently purchased by Mr. Edman for $80,000 and had been refitted and rebuilt throughout. The house will be rebuilt at once.

The risks on the burned portion are: Milwaukee Fire, $2000; Norwich Union, $2000; Lancashire, $2000; Franklin, $2000; Fireman's Fund, $2000. On the other portion: Manchester, $4000; Detroit, $3000.

TO TEACH TEACHERS.

School of Instruction for Institute Conductors is in Session at Madison.

Madison, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—The third annual school of instruction for teachers' institute conductors opened here this afternoon at the high school building. This school is conducted by State Supt. L. D. Harvey, who is chairman of the committee on institutes of the board of normal registers, under whose auspices the school is held. The idea, however, is that of Supt. Harvey, who inaugurated it two years ago. The purpose is to increase the efficiency of the institute conductors by giving them opportunity for discussion of features of the work, exchange of ideas and suggestions by the state superintendent, who will give an address each day at both the morning and afternoon sessions. The school will continue five days, closing Friday afternoon.

WANT WOMAN DEAN.

Co-Eds at the University of Wisconsin Want Direct Representation in the Faculty.

Madison, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—The co-eds at the state university are moving for the re-establishment of the position of dean of women at the institution. A petition to this end was circulated at a meeting of the Student Government association, held Saturday afternoon, and signed by every member. The position has been vacant since the resignation of Dean Annie Crosby Emery, now head of the women's department of Brown university. Members of the association say that they have no special reason in view for the place, their purpose being to secure a direct representation in the faculty of their interests.

NUNS ARE EXPELLED.

Bishop Eis Closes Hospital at Iron Mountain, Mich., and Orders Sisters to Leave Diocese.

Marquette, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—Bishop Eis has ordered the sisters' hospital at Iron Mountain, Mich., closed and expelled the nuns in charge from his diocese. The trouble at the institution began in January, when Ellen Hogan, a novice, was accused at the instance of the mother superior of a serious charge, and counter charges were preferred against the mother superior and her colleagues. An ecclesiastical court held an inquiry into the matter, and the full text of the examination was submitted to Bishop Eis.

Former Oshkosh Man Ends Struggle by Killing Himself.

Oshkosh, Wis., April 1.—[Special.]—John Bloom, discouraged and disheartened in Oklahoma, committed suicide there Sunday. He had been employed as carpenter at the state hospital for eight years. Six weeks ago he left his position and took his wife and two children to Madison, where he left them while he went to Oklahoma to look for work. Information to the effect that he had committed suicide was received in Oshkosh this morning by the Woodmen camp, of which he was a member.

MUST SIGN AGREEMENT.

Diplomatic Relations Between Russia and China May Cease.

BRUIN IS GROWLING.

Notice Sent to the Emperor that is Very Little Short of an Ultimatum.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—Information has reached here to the effect that the Russian government, being seriously perturbed by the course of China in not signing the Manchurian agreement, largely because of the protest made by the several powers, has conveyed a distinct and unmistakable indication to China that if this course is persisted in, there may be an interruption of diplomatic relations between Russia and China, and a termination of the present intercourse between them. This is little short of an ultimatum that China must sign or take the consequences of a termination of her friendly relations with Russia.

To what extent the United States will recognize or enforce the agreement, has not yet been made apparent. It appears to be the policy of the Chinese authorities to consider this as a subject which concerns the powers quite as much as it does China. The matter has become further complicated by reports reaching Washington that the Chinese authorities themselves are divided on the course to be pursued, some of the most influential, including Li Huang Chang, urging that acquiescence be given to the Russian proposals while others insist on rejecting the agreement. The time within which it was to be signed expired last Tuesday, but on that day Yang Yu, the Chinese minister at St. Petersburg, fell in the legation and hurt his head, so that he is unable to transact business. This unfortunate accident caused much consternation here, and some irritation in certain quarters, as it has been recognized as a most timely means of avoiding a direct issue on the subject. It is not clear to what extent the Russian ultimatum has gone, but it gives an urgency to China's course which has not been presented thus far.

Imperial Edict Coming.

New York, April 1.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: Dispatches from Shanghai report that an imperial edict will be issued announcing the decision of the Chinese court to refuse to sign the Manchurian agreement.

London, April 1.—The correspondent of the Globe at Shanghai in a dispatch dated Saturday, March 30, says he understands that the Yang Tse viceroys and Xuan Shi Kai the military governor of Szechuan are preparing to raise 100,000 troops to Siam to rescue the Emperor from the hands of the reactionaries and escort him to Peking if a little pressure and promise of moral support is forthcoming from the powers interested in the open door.

The correspondent adds that the suggested expedition would prove popular in central and southern China, would result in the destruction of the anti-foreign elements and would lead to the establishment of a progressive government at Peking.

Time Expires Wednesday.

St. Petersburg, April 1.—The new term within which the signature of the Manchurian agreement is demanded expires Wednesday. The confidence that the treaty will be accepted substantially in its present form is apparently unshaken here, though no positive prospects are made.

Fresh Disturbances.

Berlin, April 1.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from St. Petersburg dated April 1, says robber bands, boxers and Chinese soldiers have been causing fresh disturbances in Manchuria, in the neighborhood of Chang Tu Fu. Gen. Kaubars is strengthening the railroad military posts between Karbin and Chang Tu Fu. Gen. Kaubars has asked Gen. Grodekoff to send reinforcements to the frontier. The arrival of the Russian movement is expected in the spring. The Russian garrison at Tai Shi Bar has been compelled to camp outside the town, owing to the decomposing bodies of those who were killed during the cold weather or who perished of hunger.

AMENDED ITS CHARTER.

Capital Stock of United States Steel Corporation is Increased to $1,100,000,000.

Trenton, N. J., April 1.—The United States Steel corporation this afternoon filed with the secretary of state articles amending its charter and increasing its capital stock to $1,100,000,000. The state fee for the filing of the papers was $20,000. The original articles filed some time ago were amended in one particular. This amendment was made for the purpose of taking advantage of an act passed by the recent Legislature. Originally the corporation could not mortgage or pledge its real property or any of the stock of any other company except by the affirmative vote of the owners of two-thirds of the capital stock. Under the amended charter it is necessary to have only the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the stock represented in person or by proxy at any meeting of the corporation. The reason for the change is the fear that the stock will become so scattered that it would be impossible to get two-thirds of the entire stock represented at a meeting.

POOR REWARD FOR BIG FIND.

St. Louis Barber Refuses $1 for Restoration of $23,000.

St. Louis, Mo., April 1.—George Giesebach, a barber, picked up $23,000 in checks from the platform of a street car and had the best dishonest mind have cashed much of the money and made good his escape, as the checks were all properly endorsed and negotiable. The checks were the property of G. C. Taylor, cashier of the Continental Tobacco company. Giesebach informed him over the telephone that he had some papers which seemed to belong to him. Taylor lost no time in getting to the barber shop. After establishing that he was the owner of the valuable package of papers they were given to him. Overcome by his sense of gratitude and appreciation for the recovery of such a paltry amount as $23,000, Taylor offered the barber the whole sum of $1. It was a bright, new dollar, but the barber politely, but firmly, declined to receive so large a testimonial to his honesty.

VALUE OF HARRISON ESTATE.

Property Left by the Ex-President Estimated Worth $375,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 1.—The Union Trust company, as executor of the late Gen. Benjamin Harrison, filed an inventory of his estate, including the insurance policies, which aggregated $375,000, the personal property footed up $175,000. The real estate in this city and elsewhere is not included in detail in the inventory, as it has not yet been appraised, but it is figured that it will swell the total estate to $375,000.

Nervous Prostration.

A Noted Boston Woman Describes its Symptoms and Terrors.—Two Severe Cases Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I am so nervous! no one ever suffered as I do! There isn't a well inch in my body. I honestly believe my lungs are diseased, my chest pains me so, but I have no cough. I am so weak at my stomach, and have indigestion terribly, and palpitation of the heart; am losing flesh; and this headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I had hysterics."

"There is a weight in the lower part of my bowels, bearing down all the time, with pains in my groins and thighs—I can't sleep, walk, or sit, and blue—oh goodness! I am simply the most miserable of women."

This is a most vivid description of a woman suffering with nervous prostration, caused by inflammation of some other diseased condition of the womb.

No woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is no need of it. Read about Miss Williamson's case and how she was cured.

Two Bad Cases of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM;—I was suffering such tortures from nervous prostration that life was a burden. I could not sleep at all, and was too weak to walk across the floor. My heart was affected so that often I could not lie down at all without almost suffocating. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like magic. I feel that your medicine has been of inestimable benefit to me."

Mrs. DELLA KEISER, Marienville, Pa.

"I had nervous prostration terribly, caused by female weakness. I suffered everything; was unable to eat, sleep, or work. After a while I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I really began to improve on taking the first bottle. I continued to take the medicine, and am now better in every way, and feel like a different person. I am simply a well woman."

DIDN'T LIKE PHILLIPS BROOKS.

The Greatness of Simplicity Not Understood by Farmer Folk.

Phillips Brooks' eloquence and his power to sway audiences from laughter to tears are well remembered by all who ever heard him. Yet it is recorded that once at least he was weighed in the balance and found wanting, and by the members of a country parish at that. His predilection for terse Saxon words, the ability to use which with effect is so coveted by all orators and writers, proved his undoing.

The great preacher had been invited to spend a fortnight at the country house of a friend up the Hudson. When his acceptance was received, the rector and vestrymen of the only Episcopal church for miles around were greatly excited. Here was a chance to hear the noted clergyman and to draw the city people summering in the neighborhood to the church. A committee waited upon the clergyman the day after his arrival and easily obtained his consent to officiate at the service on the following Sunday.

The fact was duly advertised in the country papers, and when the day came the church was filled to the doors. The city people were out in great numbers, while the country folk had gathered from miles around. The sermon was followed with the closest attention, but on many homely country faces there was a look of great disappointment.

"So that's your great preacher from Boston, is it?" asked one of the farmers, as he carried one of the city boarders into the carry-all.

Iceland's Cable Hangs Fire.

The laying of the first telegraph cable between Iceland and Europe seems to hang fire, writes a Copenhagen correspondent. The foreign governments who are interested in getting some quicker form of communication with Iceland than the mail for the good of the fishing and commercial interests of the respective countries have not been forthcoming with the necessary financial aid. Sweden has been very liberal in subscribing an amount for the purpose, and England is expected to do something, too, as her fishing interests near Iceland are quite the largest. The cable will probably connect Reykjavik, Iceland, with Granton, Scotland.

It is Bootmaker Now. One of New York's most fashionable dealers in footwear has the word "bootmaker" on his window in large letters in approved British style. In England only the low-cut article is called a shoe, the ordinary laced, buttoned or gaiter varieties being known as boots. Hence the Gotham anglo-manic's window sign.

Poem Which Pleased Queen Victoria
In reference to a paragraph that appeared in the London Daily Mail recently, a correspondent sends that paper a copy of the little poem, "She Noddit to Me," which was published about sixteen years ago in the Aberdeen Journal. This poem pleased the Queen so much that she ordered a copy of the poem to be sent to her regularly. It is "Africa" substituted for the word "Egypt" the poem seems particularly appropriate at the present moment:
I'm but an Arab boy
Lift up in the desert
In a two-room'd hut
With a roof of mud
With a cow and my trumpet
I'm as happy as a bee
But I'm far prouder now
Since she noddit to me!
I'm nae sae far past wit—
I'm aie trix and hail—
Can plant two-three twaxies,
An' look after my bail.
And when our Queen passes
I'm ock to see,
Gin by luck she noddit notice,
And nod oot to me!
But I've been unlucky,
And the blime is her doon.
Till last week the time
O' her vesit cam' roon.
I waverd my bit apron
As brist's I could dae.
An' the Queen lundit to kindly
An' noddit to me!
My son sleeps in Egypt—
It's nae ease to freit—
An' yet when I think o' it
I'm sae like to die.
She may feel for my sorrow—
She's a mither, ye see—
An' maybe she'll sent o' it
When she noddit to me!

"Crazy" Crocker's California Dream
When the late Charlie Crocker of Central Pacific railway fame crossed the plains in the '40s by ox team over the old emigrant trail from Council Bluffs to San Francisco, he predicted that, within a comparatively few years, a steam railroad would be running across the continent, following substantially the same course traveled by him. His prediction was considered so absurd by his associates that he was nicknamed "Crazy Crocker." Mr. Crocker had the satisfaction of not only seeing his prediction come true, but of being one of the leading spirits in the construction of the first transcontinental railroad. Since Mr. Crocker's dream was realized and the first transcontinental line was completed, five other distinct and separate lines have been built to the Pacific coast.—National Magazine.

A Church on Shipboard
The Standard is a palatial steam yacht recently built at Copenhagen for Czar Nicholas of Russia. The cost of the craft is said to exceed 12,000 kroner, or close to $3,000,000. Among the features peculiar to it is the "church" constructed in close proximity to the imperial cabins. The outside of the church is modeled after the architecture of the Greek orthodox church, abounding in richly-painted panels of saints and maidens.

THOUSANDS OF FAIR WOMEN HERALD PRAISES FOR PERUNA

Catarrhal Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration Make Invalids of More Women Than All Other Diseases Combined.

Peruna is the woman's friend everywhere. It is safe to say that no woman ever used Peruna for any catarrhal derangement but what it became indispensable in her household.

Letters From Women.
Every day we receive letters from women like the following. Women who have tried doctors and failed; women who have tried Peruna and were cured.
Miss Katie Klein, 6125 Barmar avenue, St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"Peruna has done me more good for catarrh than the best doctors could. I had catarrh so bad, but after taking Peruna it is entirely gone, and I feel like a different person."

Miss Anna Prescott's Letter.
Miss Anna Prescott, in a letter from 216 South Seventh street, Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"I am sincerely grateful for the relief I have found from the use of Peruna. I was completely used up last fall, my appetite had failed and I felt weak and tired all the time. My druggist advised me to try Peruna, and the relief I experienced after taking one bottle was truly wonderful."

"I continued its use for five weeks, and am glad to say that my complete restoration to health was a happy surprise to myself as well as to my friends."—Anna Prescott.

A constant drain of nervous vitality depleting the whole nervous system causes the mucous membrane surfaces to suffer accordingly. This is the condition called systemic catarrh. It very nearly resembles, and there is really no practical difference, between this condition and the condition known as neurasthenia, or nervous prostration.

Peruna will be found to effect an immediate and lasting cure in all cases of systemic catarrh. It acts quickly and beneficially on the diseased mucous membranes, and with healthy mucous membranes the catarrh can no longer exist.

Peruna a True Friend to Women.
Mrs. F. J. Lynch, writes the following from 324 S. Division street, Grand Rapids, Mich.:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.: Gentlemen—"I earnestly recommend Peruna to any suffering woman, as it cures quickly. Last year I had a most persistent cough which nothing seemed to cure. Two bottles of Peruna did more for me than all the doctors seemed to do. In a couple of weeks I found myself in excellent health, and have been enjoying it ever since. Hence I look on Peruna as a true friend to women."—Mrs. F. J. Lynch.

Peruna is equally efficacious in curing catarrh of the throat as in curing systemic catarrh or catarrh of the stomach. Catarrh is essentially the same wherever located. Peruna cures catarrh.

Peruna Makes You Feel Like a New Person.
Miss Marie Coats, a popular young woman of Appleton, Wis., and president of the Appleton Young Ladies' Club, also speaks in glowing terms of Peruna. A letter recently received from her by The Peruna Medicine Company, of Columbus, Ohio, reads as follows:

"I am glad to call the attention of my friends to Peruna. When that languid, tired feeling comes over you, and your food no longer tastes good, and small annoyances irritate you, Peruna will make you feel like another person inside of a week."

"I have now used it for three seasons, and find it very valuable and efficacious."—Miss Marie Coats.

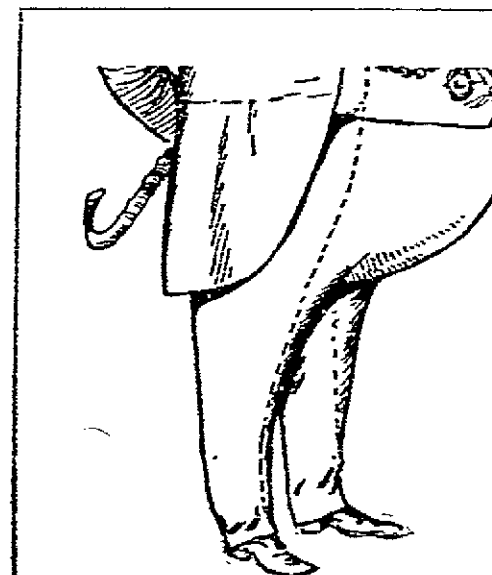

Diseased nerves are traceable directly to poor digestion, and poor digestion is directly traceable to catarrh. With the slightest catarrh of the stomach no one can have good digestion.

Very few of the many women who have catarrh of the stomach suspect what their real trouble is. They know they belch after meals, have sour stomach, a sensation of weight or heaviness, a fullness, irregular appetite, drowsiness, yawning, empty sensations, occasional pain—they all know this; but they do not know that their trouble is catarrh of the stomach. If they did they would take Peruna.

Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. As soon as Peruna removes catarrh from the stomach the digestion becomes good, appetite regular, nerves strong, and trouble vanishes. Peruna strengthens weak nerves, and by temporarily stimulating them, but by removing the cause of weak nerves—poor digestion. This is the only cure that lasts. Remove the cause. Nature will do the rest. Peruna removes the cause.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Harman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Harman, President of The Harman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Petroleum Wells in Egypt.
Two wells have been sunk by the petroleum syndicate at places called Gebel el-Zeit and Gensah, on the west coast of the Suez gulf, about 125 miles south of Suez. One of these wells has been sunk to a depth of 2350 feet, and the other to a distance of 2000 feet, writes a Cairo correspondent. In the deeper well three veins of good gas have been struck, and the last 300 feet have been through black, petroleum-bearing sand. The company is preparing to sink a third well, about 160 miles to the south of Suez, near the shore of the so-called large plain, or Southern plateau, of the Arabian desert, and the machinery for this purpose has arrived on the spot. The manager of the works is Prof. P. T. Wagner, a transatlantic; and all the workmen, laborers and tools are American, having been furnished by a well-known New York company.

Cuticura SOAP

MILLIONS of Women Use CUTICURA SOAP, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and soothing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, in the form of baths for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odors. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, viz.: TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

Some idea may be gained of what the trusts are doing for the people from the following: An Oshkosh firm received a consignment of glass last week, the bill for which amounted to $20,000. Had it been bought before the first of January it would have cost them $9,000 and glass was then considered to be high, and was bringing a good price. This is just one instance of what a trust will do when once it gets complete control of a commodity.

A Good Old Age

is reached by the shoes we sell. That's what comes of a good constitution. The inner sole is solid leather, the outer sole is solid leather and if you have an extra half sole that too is solid leather. The counters are solid leather and the putting together is done for keeps.

Your shoes will stay together longer if they are the kind we sell, and, free from foot-fretting, you will be as complacent and happy as our friends in the corner when you yourself reach a good old age.

Silence is Golden YET SELFISH.

Were we to remain silent the public would be longer in discovering that they can save from 40 to 60 per cent. on any piece of furniture they wish to purchase, or in other words, can obtain high grade furniture at a lower price than is paid to other dealers for an inferior quality.
